SPECIES AVAILABLE

STANDARD SPECIES - See Pricelist for Lead time on Standard Species

ALDER - Classified as a hardwood, the wood is soft, white when first cut, turning to pale red which often looks similar to cherry. It is characterized by its straight closed grain and even texture. It takes stain well. Being rather light, soft and uniform in color, it can be easily worked.

CHERRY - Classified as a hardwood, the reddish-brown wood is hard, strong and heavy. Our cherry is 95%+ red with minimal to no sap. This wood sands and finishes beautifully, making it a highly desired species for the making of furniture and cabinetry.

MAPLE - This wood has medium density, strength and hardness. It is a light, closed grained, uniform in color species. Light greys and light browns may appear. No dark colors. It is stain or paint grade.

POPLAR - This soft, fine-grained species is considered a paint grade wood. Poplar, normally light in color, may have medium to light green color but no black or purple allowed. This species can be stained though normally is considered a paint-grade.

RED OAK - This wood is known for being very heavy, strong, hard and coarse grained. Pale reddish brown in color. Uniform in color.

RUBBERWOOD - This is wood from the Pará rubber tree, and is harvested only after it completes its latex producing cycle, generally when it is 25-30 years old. Our rubberwood is advertised as an "environmentally friendly" wood, as it makes use of plantation trees that have already served a useful function. It has a dense grain that is easily controlled in the kiln drying process. Uniform light brown in color, this species can be stained or painted.

WHITE PINE - The wood is a soft, lightweight wood. It has a straight grain and a fine even texture. White pine is creamy white or a pale straw color often having the characteristic solid pine knots.

Available Species

PREMIUM SPECIES - See Pricelist for Lead time on Premium Species

HICKORY - The wood is very hard, dense and durable. The grain is normally straight, however sometime can be irregular or wavy. Hickory varies widely between color from reddish brown, white and lighter brown.

WHITE HARD MAPLE - The wood is a closed grain hard wood. The sapwood can be very white in color. Hard Maple is usually very consistent in color and uniform in accepting stains. A favorite of the stain grade species.

WHITE OAK - This wood is a straight grain, a medium coarse grain hardwood. White Oak is harder and heavier than Red Oak. It ranges in color from dark brown to light brown, lacking the reddish tones of the Red Oak. Because of the tighter, straighter grain pattern, a more consistent finish is accomplished.

SPECIES AVAILABLE

SPECIALIZED SPECIES - *3-5 week lead time

SAPELE/MAHO - One of the most valued of the premium species in furniture and cabinetry. The wood has a characteristic grain and a medium coarse texture. It varies from medium red to light reddish brown. Uniform in color. You may request the African Mahogany or Sapele when you order.

WALNUT - Considered rare, Walnut is a valued favorite of the premium wood species. Very durable and strong, its naturally chocolate brown color and exquisite closed grain pattern sets it apart from all others. This wood finishes beautifully.

QUARTER SAWN WHITE OAK - Having an amazingly straight grain pattern, this white oak is milled so the annular growth rings intersect the face of the board close to 90 degrees. Consistent in grain pattern and color this wood is sought after for both cabinetry and furniture.

RUSTIC SPECIES - *3-5 week lead time

Rustic species allows for knots, pin holes, small cracks in finished product, color variation, and wind shake. Rustic is available in the following species:

ALDER, CHERRY, HICKORY, RED OAK, WALNUT, WHITE OAK

Standard species pricing + 30% additional charge for Rustic*
